Women's History Month Provides Inspiration

March marks a month in which we can all pay homage to the women in history who have shaped our country – and the women among us who are making history in their own way.

As we wrap up the first full week of March, I am pleased to say that already, the month has brought with it a great deal of reflection and positivity in the Cherry Hill Public Schools. This is Women's History Month, reminding us all about the significant contributions women have made to our society. The contributions of women activists, scientists, mathematicians, artists of all kinds, authors, teachers, spiritual leaders and more have helped shape our society and have given younger generations role models to emulate. These women offer a positive example for not only girls and women in our society, but for all of us as human beings.

Joyce Kilmer Elementary School on March 6 held an event produced by the school's 5th grade girls called "Women of Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" to kick off Women's History Month. The girls featured 13 women from distant and recent history, as well as those who are with us today. Among the women featured were Eleanor Roosevelt, Frida Kahlo, Rosa Parks, Rita Moreno, Ruth Bader Ginsburg, Michelle Obama and Malala Yousefzai.

The Rosa International Middle School PTA on March 8 sponsored Mary Knysh from Young Audiences NJ to treat the Rosa 7th graders to a "Rhythms Around the World" assembly, pictured above, celebrating Women's History Month and World Languages Week. The event introduced students to the music and rhythms of the world by weaving songs, instruments, legends and history from a multi-cultural collection.

"Drumline LIVE," created by the musical team behind the hit movies, "Drumline" and "Drumline: A New Beat," embodies what the Kimmel Center describes as "the soulful, high-stepping style of the Historically Black College and University (HBCU) marching band experience."

Caps off Read Across America Events

Students and staff at Richard Stockton Elementary School were treated to a visit from the Cat in the Hat on March 7 as part of Read Across America.

The Cat greeted students in grades K-2, "high-fived" students and posed for class pictures in the school library.

The Cat in the Hat also donated the Dr. Seuss book If I Ran the Zoo to commemorate his visit. The visit capped off Stockton's celebration of Read Across America, which last week included local "celebrity" guest readers from the community, the Board of Education, and CHPS administration. The Cat's visit was sponsored by the NJEA.

The other 11 elementary schools around the district, and the Barclay Early Childhood Center, held their own Read Across America events as well. These events included guest readers, dressing up as one's favorite Dr. Seuss character, and a Dr. Seuss "door decorating contest."
